

Actuarial Analyst / Actuary

Sydney

Taylor Fry is looking for an experienced actuarial analyst or recently qualified Actuary with General Insurance (GI) experience to join our growing Sydney office.

About the role

This position is based in our Sydney office, where you will be involved in a range of actuarial engagements for corporate and government clients.

You will be placed in one of our four practice areas – Insurance, Injury Schemes, Social Sector or Analytics. Most of our staff will work across at least one other practice area.

As you progress at Taylor Fry, you will increasingly be involved in business development, client management and marketing activities, and have the opportunity to attend and present at local and international conferences.

About you

You're an actuarial analyst or recently qualified Actuary with 2 – 5 years' experience. You:

- » Have outstanding academic and work credentials, with demonstrated ability to thinking critically and creatively
- » Have experience working independently and as part of a team
- » Are comfortable liaising with clients and/or stakeholders
- » Are developing your ability to think practically and commercially.

You should also have the right to work in Australia.

About us

Established in 1999, Taylor Fry is a leading Australasian consultancy firm providing analytics and actuarial advice to business and government. In 2014, we were awarded Service Provider of the year to the Australian Insurance Industry. Qantas Loyalty owns a 51% stake in Taylor Fry. One of our founding principals, Alan Greenfield, was named 2015 Actuary of the Year.

We highly value technical excellence, and we encourage our staff members to be involved in research and present their work at conferences. We pride ourselves in having a non-hierarchical culture, where all staff are encouraged to contribute to the success of the company. Sustainability is one of our key values, reflected in our company's carbon neutral status.

We have three offices in Sydney, Melbourne and Wellington.
