

Actuary / Senior Actuary

Sydney

Taylor Fry is looking for an experienced General Insurance actuary with exceptional client and team management skills to help support business growth, manage projects and develop junior staff.

About the role

This is a senior position based in our Sydney office, where you will manage a range of actuarial engagements for corporate and government clients.

Depending on your background and interests, you will be placed in one of our four practice areas – Insurance, Injury Schemes, Social Sector or Analytics. Most of our professional staff will work across at least one other practice area.

You will also help out with business development, client management and marketing activities, and have the opportunity to attend and present at local and international conferences.

About you

You're a qualified actuary with 6 – 10 years' experience. You've scoped and led projects, developed junior staff, and managed client relationships. Ideally you have GI consulting experience, and have been exposed to a broad range of clients.

You should also have the right to work in Australia.

About us

Established in 1999, Taylor Fry is a leading Australasian consultancy firm providing analytics and actuarial advice to business and government. In 2014, we were awarded Service Provider of the year to the Australian Insurance Industry. In February 2015 Qantas Loyalty purchased 51% of Taylor Fry to tap into our data and analytics capabilities. One of our founding principals, Alan Greenfield, was named 2015 Actuary of the Year.

We highly value technical excellence, and we encourage our staff members to be involved in research and present their work at conferences. We pride ourselves in having a non-hierarchical culture, where all staff are encouraged to contribute to the success of the company. Sustainability is one of our key values, reflected in our company's carbon neutral status.

We have three offices in Sydney, Melbourne and Wellington.
